COUNTRY NEWS.

Newcastle, Sept. 13.

On Monday last, about Three in the Morning, a violent Storm began in this Place, which did a great deal of Damage on the River; particularly at Shields, the Ship Prince of Wales, from New-England, broke from her Moorings, and her Port-holes being open, the Water poured into her with such Violence, that she soon sunk, and turn'd Keel uppermost. One Harbottle, Custom-house Officer, was lost, together with three Sailors; the Officer has left a Wife and seven Children. Most of the other Ships drove from their Moorings also, and by running foul of each other, great Damage was done. Several Keels were likewise sunk, and many of the Wherries greatly shattered. In short, it is said the Vessels in the Tyne received less Damage by the late Frost, than by this Tempest.
